Teaching, Learning, and Developing

By Brian Heldenbrand

Synopsis of the September 3rd Presentation

Educators in the field of EFL/ESL spend hours of their life in the classroom bettering students in their English proficiency scores and language skills. As a result of their arduous labor, educators need more resources and involvement within opportunities to better equip themselves for teaching and learning. The daily commitment of each teacher to prepare, instruct, motivate, encourage, correct, and counsel (to name a few) requires numerous hours, ideas and discipline. Whether the language learning environment exists within the classroom, in social learning opportunities, or online, teachers need to be aware, and better able to consider the educational “options” or “tools” available for teaching, learning and developing more as an educator. This presentation will look at seven specific building blocks an EFL teacher in Korea might wish to consider for becoming a more awesome teacher. Some of these ideas and techniques are taken from Doug Lemov’s outstanding book, Teach Like a Champion. Regardless of whether we are experienced educators or first-year teachers-in-training, this presentation will offer everyone an opportunity to nod their head in agreement. Well, are you ready to build?

Biographical Sketch

Brian is an Associate Professor in the Department of Liberal Arts in Jeonju University. He has taught English in Jeonju University since 1994. Brian’s other posts at present include head of the International Education Center, principal of Global Prodigy Academy, (an American International High School on the campus of Jeonju University), and Director for the English Elementary Education Teacher Training Center. Brian has been active with KOTESOL for over 17 years and has served in various leadership positions within the local chapter and nationally during his stay in Korea. He served as Cholla Chapter President for three years (before the division into Jeonju-North Jeolla and Gwangju-Jeonnam Chapters) and as National Secretary. His interests in EFL relate to visual learning, extensive reading and the development of presentation skills in language learners. Brian has been married over twelve years to Tammy Fisher and they have a seven-year old son named Malachi, who attends first grade in a Korean elementary school. Brian serves as the pastor of Jungbu English Church in Jeonju.

Writing Emotion into Writing

By Julien McNulty

Synopsis of the September 3rd Presentation

I like apples? Using emotion, tone, and NVC in effective sentence writing

According to many sources (mostly attributed to Mehrabian's 1968 study), about 90% of what we say is non-verbal. In other words, we say more in the HOW, than the WHAT. At the intermediate level of ELT, we don't capitalize on the student's growing lexicon; we could help develop better descriptive and narrative writing by exploring the use of tone in language.

This workshop will focus on unlocking the learner's flair for the dramatic, internalizing emotion, then using those feelings to write tone into sentences. Other forms of tone in writing will be explored and discussed, keeping a light-hearted, humorous outlook when citing examples.

The target audience for these exercises is the intermediate/upper-intermediate language learner, teenager to adult. If you are trying to find ways to explore drama, or creative writing in class, participation in this workshop will emotivate you.

Following is a brief lesson plan. The full lesson plan will be available at the presentation.

August 6th Chapter Meeting Report

Gwangju-Jeonnam's first-ever August meeting was held on the first Saturday of the month (Aug. 6). The format for this mid-summer meeting was different than the norm. The main event was scheduled to be an ELT swap-shop followed by a Q-and-A session and an abbreviation and acronym challenge. As it turned out, the swap-shop consumed the entirety of the three-hour meeting. Many very useful teaching activities and ideas were presented to add to the audiences' repertoire, thanks to Faith Fishley, Maria Lisak, Viva May Cabrerros, James Hunt, Ynell Lumantao, Dr. Yeon-seong Park, Lynne Van Lelyveld, Brian Thomas, and Dr. David Shaffer. As Chapter Membership Coordinator, Faith Fishley, is finishing her service at Suncheon National University and will be moving on, she was presented with a plaque of appreciation from the Chapter membership by President David Shaffer. While the attendance of this vacation-time meeting was expectedly low, the eighteen who attended agreed over samgye-tang afterward that the dog-days meeting was possibly the most informative and beneficial chapter session in a long while. The Chapter is looking for a new Membership Coordinator to replace Faith and for a Communications Officer. If you are interested or know of someone who may be, contact David Shaffer.

Lesson Plan: I like Apples

Topic: Writing emotion into words

Purpose: Enhance written communication; remove ambiguity, like sarcasm, through effective descriptive writing of emotions.

Objective: Write one sentence in pair/group and one sentence individually, using scene description, constrained by task given by teacher.

Materials: PowerPoint, blank slips of paper, emotions slips, phrase slips.
